

The Mondavi Center: Enriching a Signature Space

A WORK OF ART

The acclaimed conductor Michael Tilson Thomas was one of the first to grace the stage in our 1,801-seat Jackson Hall, the Mondavi Center's main venue, after our opening in 2002. He was so pleased with the acoustics there that he described the hall itself as a "wonderful new instrument." Indeed, our technically advanced, sustainably designed facility, which also houses the 200-seat Vanderhoef Studio Theatre, is its own work of art. Like any instrument, it requires fine tuning and regular maintenance to perform at peak levels.

UCDAVIS

For more information on how you can support the performing arts in our region through a gift to the Mondavi Center, please contact Nancy Petrisko, Director of Development, at npetrisko@ucdavis.edu or (530) 754-5420.

The Mondavi Center: Enriching a Signature Space

THE VISION

Our next aspiration for improving our physical space is to enhance the amenities available to audiences, and thus their overall experiences at a premier public facility where creative connections are made.

THE PHILANTHROPIC OPPORTUNITY

Your gift to support the Mondavi Center's capital projects will help to:

- Expand classroom or studio space to accommodate artist's residencies and educational programs
- Build a restaurant to provide fine dining for patrons and an amenity for visitors and artists
- Replace the sound shell that is integral to Jackson Hall's unique acoustics for orchestral and acoustic music
- Provide a family restroom on each level to accommodate visitors of all ages who require assistance
- Create a checkroom/coatroom for performance and event patrons
- Add digital signage for audience information and wayfinding both inside and outside of theaters

UCDAVIS

For more information on how you can support the performing arts in our region through a gift to the Mondavi Center, please contact Nancy Petrisko, Director of Development, at npetrisko@ucdavis.edu or (530) 754-5420.